Dear Mr. Mamdani,

NYC is lagging behind in tech and the world is changing fast!

Your campaign ran on a vision of a city that works for every New Yorker. But the digital layer underneath that promise is in rough shape.

We are submitting a proposal of 12 recommendations for your consideration on how civic technology could improve the everyday lives of New Yorkers.

These recommendations came out of an open-format participatory event called Open Assembly: A Prompt Towards Civic Engagement held at Index Greenpoint on March 10th, 2026, co-presented with a committee of leading organizations in the civic technology field including Mozilla Foundation, Polis, RadicalxChange, Metagov and New_ Public.

We believe the city should:

- 1 Build a Public Internet
- 2 Free Internet for All
- 3 City-Owned Payment Rails
- 4 Real-Time Housing Data
- 5 Improve 311
- 6 Curb AI Expansion
- 7 Public Comment on Every Bill
- 8 Real-Time Budget Tracking
- 9 Office of AI Accountability
- 10 Opt Out of Biometric Surveillance
- 11 Regulate Self-Driving Taxis
- 12 Food Rescue Platform

We want to help improve the lives of New Yorkers.
